Joe Holmes

CALLED 2009

"Joe is unmatchable in terms of international law. He is a brilliant lawyer who can do any piece of law..."
CHAMBERS AND PARTNERS, 2027

Joe is a human rights specialist who is in demand in the fields of international human rights law, international criminal law, rule of law, extradition, disciplinary and regulatory law, public law and complex crime.

An "impressive advocate", who is "absolutely wonderful" with a "fantastic legal mind", Joe practises in the UK and internationally, applying his expertise gained internationally to a range of domestic fields. His recent instructions have included:

- Counsel for President Milosevic's intelligence chief in the first full retrial in international criminal law history (before the International Residual Mechanism for Criminal Tribunals)
- Acting for footballing agent Willie McKay in civil contempt of court proceedings arising in the context of a claim between FC Nantes and Cardiff City Football Club, concerning the death of footballer Emelieno Sala
- Acting in proceedings before the Kosovo Specialist Chambers alleging contempt of court in the trial of the former President of Kosovo
- Advising in a case of intimidation / transnational repression in the UK by a large multi-national corporation against a foreign asylum holder

- Criminal Justice Adviser to the British High Commissioner in the Maldives, advising on counter-terrorism and anti-corruption matters
- An appeal before the High Court concerning the compatibility of the Romanian Criminal Code with the Extradition Act 2003 (section 20)

Joe has acted at most of the international criminal tribunals. Described as a "powerhouse in International law". he has defended civilian and military leaders as well as the interests of victims at the ICC, ICTY, ICTR, SCSL, IRMCT and the KSC. He has developed a reputation for incisive legal argument, both orally and in writing. According to the legal directories "his knowledge of the case law concerning the principal international tribunals is as good as that of any of the best practitioners".

Joe has also led several Rule of Law projects globally. His work has an emphasis on supporting emerging states transitioning to democracy from the traumas of conflict or autocracy. He has held leadership roles on UK FCDO multi-year projects in Somaliland, Kosovo and the Maldives. He also directed several projects supporting domestic prosecution authorities and civil society to pursue accountability for war crimes in Ukraine, Syria, Iraq and South Sudan.

He is dual-qualified before the Bars of England and Wales and New York.
