Andrew Rose

Junior Counsel - Under 15 Years
CALLED 2022

After graduating from university, Andrew was admitted onto the graduate scheme at Standard & Poor's (now S&P Global Market Intelligence) and enjoyed a career in the banking and financial technology start-up fields, thereafter.

Andrew switched to law and completed the GDL, after which he worked as a paralegal at a busy criminal defence firm, where he assisted on a VHCC and prepared extradition and appeal matters. He also worked at another criminal defence firm where he was utilised in a business development capacity. Andrew then enrolled on the Bar course, at the culmination of which, he returned to work as a criminal defence paralegal.

Alongside this, Andrew tutored undergraduates and graduates on the university criminal and tort law modules, as well as the GDL, before commencing pupillage in October 2023. During his first six, he was previously supervised by Sean Sullivan and is currently supervised by Katrina Charles.
